
Weirdest Chocolate you've ever had?

What was the weirdest Chocolate you've ever had? I think mine would have to be the Mexican mole sauce I once made: it took us a whole afternoon to make the sauce from scratch, and then the last step was to boil some plain chicken and just put the sauce on top of it. :S

Not sure what the weirdest chocolate I ever had, but I did hear on the radio recently some bloke describing a chocolate fair in France where he tasted all sorts. He liked the chocolate coated cheese - particularly blue cheese, but wasn't so keen on the chocolate coated seaweed!

Yes mole sauce can be very hard to make,takes alot of time,but well worth it!
I like to spice mine up some!:P

I would guess that chocolate covered ants just taste like chocolate. Ants are tiny. You've probably eaten tons of them in your life. Same with chocolate covered fleas, gnats, and small spiders. Really daring eating would have to include chocolate covered roaches, worms, or rats.
